

JUST GOSSIP ABOUT PEOPLE

Nancy Wynne Suggests a Possible Reason Why an Invitation Has Not Yet Been Answered—She Chats About the Doings of Various People at Various Places

I HEAR that Newport is still hoping to have the Prince there. In fact, the Historical Society and the Newport Improvement Association have sent him a special invitation to go there. But the sad thing is they have not heard yet from H. R. H.

It was thinking about that today, and it occurred to me that perhaps Edward Albert did not feel like being improved. You see, an improvement association smacks of uplift and a lot of us are getting pretty sore on this uplift business, you know so after all, maybe Edward Albert took a squint at that invitation and saw "improvement" and decided that he did not intend to improve Newport nor let Newport improve him.

Anyhow, the invitation still remains unanswered and every one up there is hoping that he will go. Personally I think he would. Newport has stood for the leading social place in the Philadelphia States social life for so many years that it does seem as if visiting royalty should be entertained there if it is possible. And Edward Albert is some royalty, believe me.

BETTY PHILLIPPE, the daughter of the B. Pemberton Phillips, of Devon, is having a wonderful time these days off with friends on a motoring tour through the Berkshires, Bretton Woods and the rest of the gorgeous country included in that ideal trip, and they are to finish up with a three weeks' stay in Poland Springs, where father and mother are out at Yellowstone Park and other interesting places for the fall.

Betty, you know, was recently graduated by the class of occupational therapy, which was organized by the National League for Women's Service and which had several of the Philadelphia girls on its roll. Among them were Nancy Morris, Frances Mears and Elizabeth Penner, of Wilmington, the last named having just been graduated from Vassar when she started the occupational course.

YESTERDAY I heard that the proceeds of the Indoor Horse Show amounted to $7500, including donations and the ambulance fund. The show was given in May, you remember, the eighth, ninth and tenth. The beneficiaries this year were six hospitals, the American Hospital, the Polyclinic, the Oncologic, the Babies' Hospital, the Garrison and the Samaritan. Five thousand dollars has been paid over to them and the rest will be paid shortly. This was the eighth annual show, and I hear that Mrs. Walter Hancock, who is always chairman of the committee, is already thinking up attractive features for next year's show. It strikes me $7500 is very good for three days, one of which was a rainy one.

BUT, talking of funds raised at various entertainments, I had thought the biggest thing I had ever heard of was that rummage sale held last year for the benefit of St. Edmund's Home for Crippled Children when the work-ers raised more than $17,000 for the home. But my dear, do you know that on that single day of June 28, when the navy yard was opened to the public for the first time since the war, they cleared $24,000 for the Navy Relief Fund. In one day mind you! You've got to hand it to them, haven't you?

THEY are both up at Winter Harbor, and at various times during the summer one or the other has appeared in a lovely, fluffy and smart frock and danced in said frock all evening.

Well, of course, the gossips got busy as only the gossips in small resorts can, and it was very interesting to hear of the "Which one do you think owns that dress and which one borrows it from the other?"

And so the talk went on, till finally one of the girls heard a breath of it and after laughing over it a great deal called up the other on the telephone and told her of it.

There was to be a dance the next evening to which both girls were going, and so Miriam suggested that they both wear those "bridesmaid's frocks" that night and set at rest forever the silly gossip.

And the joke of it was, that no one had ever thought of such an explanation, though many have thought those girls had often been in the same bridal parties.

NANCY WYNNE.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Mrs. Daniel L. Hutchinson, Jr., of this city, has issued invitations for a luncheon and bridge party to be given on Tuesday, August 19, at her cottage on Barton, Newport, R. I.

Mrs. Hutchinson entertained yesterday at luncheon and bridge.

An interesting wedding took place quietly today at the home of Mrs. Sydney Jones Colford, in Westport, Conn., when Mr. Potter Adams, of New York and Newport, became the bride of Mr. Charles Carroll Martin, of New York. Mrs. Colford, who is the daughter of Mr. Edward Collins Knight, of 1605 Chestnut street, and Newport, and a niece of Mr. Edmund Waterman Dwight, of Chestnut Hill, made her home in this city during the absence of her husband overseas. Mrs. Adams is a niece of the late Bishop Potter, of New York.

Mrs. Hollishead N. Taylor, who is chairman of the committee in charge of the fair for the benefit of the Church of the Advent, Cape May, to be held at the Red Mill, in Cape May, tomorrow afternoon, will be assisted by the following members of the summer cottage colony at the resort:

ington, who is staying at the Oceanside Hotel, Magnolia, Mass., will remain until October.

Mrs. Henry L. Reid, of Chestnut Hill, is spending the month at Jamestown, R. I., and will return the first of September.

Mrs. Richard G. Wood, who is at the Yorkshire Inn, York Harbor, Me., will remain until the middle of next month.

Miss Ethel Hastings, of Bryn Mawr, is spending some time at Big Moose, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ballard are spending this month and the early part of September at Chebeague Island, Me.

Mrs. William Coleman Freeman, who is at the Marshall House, York Harbor, Me., will remain until September 23.

Mr. Joseph Gazzam, Jr., of 236 South Ninth street, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. Bertram Lippincott at their summer home in Jamestown. Mr. Alexander Van Pelt is also their guest. Miss Olivia Gazzam and her father, Mr. Joseph Gazzam, are touring in the West.

Mr. Howard F. Hansell, Jr., of this city, is staying for a short time at the Ambassador in Chelsea.

The dances for enlisted men held by the Woman's Suffrage party at the Roosevelt will be given at Asher's after this week.

Dr. Louis F. Love, of 1305 Locust street, and the Misses Love are occupying their cottage at Cape May.

Dr. and Mrs. Mattrossian, of 1328 Chestnut street, are taking a short trip to Cape May.

Mrs. James Tracy, the Misses Tracy and Mrs. Frank Horn, son-in-law and daughter of Mrs. James Tracy, of Fayette street, Conshohocken, are touring to Glen Hall, Wernersville, over the week-end.

Dr. Arthur M. Danneberg, of 1847 North Thirty-third street, returned this week from Camp Jackson and is spending a few days with his family in Atlantic City. Captain Danneberg has just received his discharge.

Dr. and Mrs. M. Danneberg, of 1847 North Thirty-third street, returned this week from Camp Jackson and is spending a few days with his family in Atlantic City. Captain Danneberg has just received his discharge.

Dr. and Mrs. Walter Knipe and their daughter, Miss Nellie Knipe, of 220 West Chelten avenue, have just returned from their trip to the Canadian Rockies.

Dr. Minnie D. Leopold and daughters, Margaret and Betty, met Mr. Leopold in New York on his return from service in France and are spending the remainder of the summer at their cottage in Avalon, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Austen Boyd are spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Boyd at their cottage in Ocean City.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Statzell and their children motored to Pine Beach, N. J., for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall Andersen are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter on Monday. Mrs. Andersen will be remembered as Miss Elizabeth Clothier.

WEST PHILADELPHIA

Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. McEwen, of West Philadelphia, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Lena Elizabeth McEwen, and Mr. Caspar T. Eissler, of South Philadelphia. The wedding will take place in the fall.

Miss Hilda Gallagher, of 510 South Forty-fifth street, has returned to her home after spending some time in Wildwood.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell Butler, of Haverford avenue, are spending the week at Atlantic City.

FALLS OF SCHUYLKILL

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Benham, of Park road and Calumet street, will go to Atlantic City for the late summer.

Miss Uretta Johnson, of Midvale avenue, is spending the season at Blairville, Harford county, Maryland.

WISSAHICKON

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Culley, of 275 Rosell avenue, have been spending some time in New York.

Miss Kathleen Perry, of 5107 Ridge avenue, motored up to the Delaware Water Gap last Saturday and is spending the week there.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Stafford and their family, of Sumac street, have gone to Ocean City to remain through the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Moyer, of 316 Park avenue, will follow Wildwood for the closing weeks of summer.

SOUTH PHILADELPHIA

Mr. Edward M. Pyne, of South Philadelphia, who recently returned from overseas, was the guest of friends at Beach Haven over the week-end.

Mr. George L. Schenker, of 1829 Porter street, Girard estate, will leave for a short vacation at Wildwood tomorrow evening.

Miss Esther Berenstein and Mr. Richard Frater, who have been visiting in Asbury Park, will spend a few days with the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gruber at their apartments in the Nevada, Atlantic City.

Miss Teresa McCabe, of 1811 South

MEMBER OF THE YOUNGEST SET

Dr. Stuart H. Maglaughlin, of Atlantic City, being entertained this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Purdy, of 4038 Chancellor street.

Miss Elsie Moerman, of 216 South Thirty-seventh street, is spending a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Moerman, of Doylestown, Pa.

Mr. H. T. H. Spooner, of 106 South Thirty-eighth street, is spending the summer at his cottage in Ocean City.

Major Paul J. McDonnell will leave Paris for home the end of August. Major McDonnell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William McDonnell, of 108 South Thirty-eighth street.

Friends of Mrs. James Lucas and Miss Kate McPhillin will be glad to hear of their entire recovery from their motor accident.

Among those at Cape May is Miss Helen Hanna, daughter of the late Judge Hanna, of 110 South Thirty-eighth street.

Mrs. William Casselman and her son, Dr. Arthur Casselman, who has just returned from overseas, are spending the summer at their cottage, 801 Washington street, Cape May.

Miss Wolgamuth, of 4000 Spruce street, is spending the summer at the Colonial, Cape May.

Dr. Evelyn Dandreaux, of 1107 Baltimore avenue, has returned to this city after a trip through California.

Mr. and Mrs. David F. Smyth, of 216 North Thirty-fourth street, are occupying their cottage at Atlantic City.

Mrs. Thomas P. Skelly and her children, of Thirty-fourth street and Haverford avenue, are spending the summer at their cottage, Newark avenue, Ventnor.

Dr. Evelyn Dandreaux, of 1107 Baltimore avenue, has returned to this city after a trip through California.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Craven, of 1917 North Twelfth street, with their daughters, Miss Virginia Craven, Miss Harriet Craven and Miss Emily Craven, are spending the season in Ocean City. Miss Marguerite Craven, who has been the guest of Mr. Kenton Warner, of 4000 Spruce street, at her summer home in Ocean City, will go to Chelsea for the remainder of the summer.

Dr. and Mrs. John H. Torrance, of 1308 North Eighteenth street, will leave during the week for Boston, Mass., and later will go to Old Orchard and Portland, Me. Upon their return they will spend some time with their son-in-law, Beatrice E. Torrance, and Mrs. Ralph Downes, at their summer home in Island Heights. Mrs. Downes, who was a June bride, will be remembered as Miss Hazel Torrance.

Miss Mabel Hauke, of North Park avenue, is spending several weeks in the Pocono Mountains.

Mrs. H. Johns, of Euclid avenue, is visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Ogden, at their summer home in Perkasie, Pa.

TIOGA

Mrs. Clara S. Ogden and her daughter, Miss E. Jane Ogden, who have been spending a month in Ocean City, are returning to their home, 2208 Hunting Park avenue, Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman V. Bureau have returned from their wedding trip and are at home at 2226 North Sixteenth street. The bride was Miss Beatrice E. Torrance, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Torrance, of 3128 North Seventh street. Mr. and Mrs. Dezon have returned from several weeks' stay at Corson's Inlet.

POOR BOYS, FAMOUS FRIENDS: CARNEGIE AND MARK TWAIN

Lives of Iron Master and Philosopher-Humorist That Began Same Year Strangely Intertwoven

MASTER DURAND BARRETT BLATZ The little son of Mr. and Mrs. John Blatz, of Sixty-fourth street and Overbrook avenue

ANDREW CARNEGIE beat Mark Twain to the light of this world by just five days.

The chubby little Scotsman first gazed Scottish air with his restless little feet on November 25, 1835. The humorist caught his virgin glimpse at the world in Florida, Missouri, a town as uncrowded at the time as Dunfermline itself, and away at the other end of the world.

Yet the lives of these two babies were destined to be strangely intertwined. They were both born poor. They both by the restlessness of their natures and by the strength of their characters, moved through a life of activity from obscurity to renown. Without formal schooling, they both lived long enough and wisely enough to be honored by the highest institutions of learning in this country and on the continent. And they both died recognized by a world grateful for their genius and generosity.

One was a philosopher, a humorist, a philanthropist, a financier; the other was a financier of a sort, who made money but who lost most of it, a philanthropist, a humorist, a philosopher.

Andrew Carnegie and Mark Twain met each other in middle life. The latter was suffering greatly from money losses resulting from his interest in the Paige typesetting machine, a wonderful invention, but too complex to be practical.

A Proverb: Revised

On one occasion Mark Twain suggested that Carnegie take an interest in the typesetter and quoted the old proverb: "Don't put all your eggs in one basket." Carnegie stared at Twain for an instant, and answered: "That's a mistake; put all your eggs into one basket and watch that basket."

Saint Andrew, as Mark Twain was accustomed to call Carnegie, never took an interest in the typesetter, but when the project failed and later when Mark Twain's publishing house went into bankruptcy, the iron master was immediately endeavoring to live that way. And even the undertakers are sorry.

HOLMESBURG

Miss Caroline Messner, of Rhawn street and Torresdale avenue, is visiting Mrs. Clayton at her cottage in Wildwood for an indefinite stay.

Mrs. J. T. Gross, of Walker street, is entertaining her sister, Mrs. Matilda Smith, of Jamaica, L. I.

Miss Mary Hamilton, of Walker street, has gone to Reading, Pa., to visit her cousin, Mrs. C. Mason, where she will be entertained for several weeks.

Mrs. Gertrude C. Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, of 2714 South Nineteenth street, Girard estate, spent the week-end in Atlantic City.

Mr. James Devine and Miss Matilda Devine, of 2042 Morris street, spent the week-end in Atlantic City. Mr. Devine has recently returned from overseas.

WHO WOULD BE A CHAMPION SWIMMER? IT'S EASY—READ

Skinny or Fat, Just Want Hard Enough and the Goal Is in Sight, Says Trainer of Medal Winners

HOW would you like to be able to swim like Duke Kahanamoku, the world's greatest swimmer? How would you like to travel all over the world winning championships with all your expenses paid? Can you imagine your room all cluttered up with cups and medals? It sounds nice, doesn't it? Well, you can do it. Certainly you can, all you have to do is get on the water.

You may take it on the word of William Bachrach, coach of the Illinois Athletic Club, who has turned out some of the world's greatest swimmers. And he's still turning 'em out. He is here with Harold Kruger, from Honolulu, who is second only to the Duke and George Schindler, both swimmers for the Oakland A. C. Club, in the ten-mile national long distance championships at Riverton, Saturday.

You don't need physique, Mr. Bachrach said. You can be skinny when you're fourteen, fifteen or sixteen years old, so skinny that your legs look like you look at a distance like an inverted V, or you can be fat and chubby, even to the point of being tubby, and still, if you want to be a championship swimmer, swimmer enough to give up a few pounds of marbles or maybe eat a little less when you're training, go to bed a little earlier—then you can be one.

And Mr. Bachrach, who is accredited with knowing what he is talking about, and who, at the time he was questioned on the subject, was more or less sententious, gave the sheet a vicious tug and sat upright in bed.

Must Go It Alone

"You know," he said, as he draped the sheet about his two-hundred-and-some-odd-pound body in an effort to keep out the cool breezes of the morning, "swimming is a funny thing—you can't be a good swimmer, I mean of Kruger's class, and do anything else like football or basketball with it. You can play both basketball and football and be good at both, but swimming you must do alone. In other words, you must eat, drink and sleep it. Be absorbed in it and be willing to give up a few other things in order to attain the sought-for goal."

That swimming is without a doubt, the greatest of sports is the opinion of Mr. Bachrach. Even age makes very little difference, he says. The muscles are made more supple and the general development is more complete than in youth. In one day, why it'll go wrong. What motor wouldn't? So it all comes down to a question of training. If your boy of fifteen wants to become a great swimmer tell him, by all means, to go to it. If, as I say, he wants what he wants hard enough.

So, Johnny or Willie or Sammy, if you'll be in one day, why it'll go wrong. What motor wouldn't? So it all comes down to a question of training. If your boy of fifteen wants to become a great swimmer tell him, by all means, to go to it. If, as I say, he wants what he wants hard enough.

Like An Automobile

Mr. Bachrach compared a swimmer to an automobile. "The swimmer has a motor, in the form of his heart, to take care of," he says. "If he overruns it, if he feels it too much, if he under-nourishes it, if he tries to do too much with it in one day, why it'll go wrong. What motor wouldn't? So it all comes down to a question of training. If your boy of fifteen wants to become a great swimmer tell him, by all means, to go to it. If, as I say, he wants what he wants hard enough."

Girls Asked to Wear Socks at Beach Party

Chelsea Yacht Club Asks Fair Guests to Discard Regular Stockings

Girls who summer at Chelsea have been asked by a committee representing the Chelsea Yacht Club to "show 'em what we have in Chelsea," in the way of—, pardon, limbs.

It's a fact!

Chelsea is deeply stirred over a suggestion that prominent Philadelphia matrons, debutantes and subobs residents in the colony there, and in Ventnor shall join in a revolt against a widely discussed municipal bathing regulation forbidding the displaying of beautiful knees on the beach.

RECOVERS HIS CHILD AFTER YEAR'S FIGHT

Naval Lieut. Viesel's Daughter Surrendered by Camden Grandparents

A legal fight that began a year ago for possession of three-year-old Virginia Viesel ended today in Camden, when the child was surrendered to her father, Lieutenant Carl S. Viesel, of the Brooklyn Navy Yard, by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Hutchinson, 45 North Third street, Camden.

Little Virginia kept all the way from her home to the train which was to take her to her father's home in Brooklyn.

At the grandparents' home Mrs. Hutchinson was also in tears. "This parting with Virginia will break my heart," she said. "The child is the image of her mother and seems like my own child."

The child's mother was Lieutenant Viesel's first wife, who died when the little girl was born. At the time of the mother's death the lieutenant was making his way in the world and was willing to permit the grandparents to keep the baby. He had begun as a toolmaker in a machine plant and had studied dentistry, finally gaining a commission in the navy.

A year or so after the death of his first wife, Lieutenant Viesel met a young German-toned woman and proposed marriage. Admiring the lieutenant's child, the girl said she would be his wife if he would promise to get the child and they were married.

Mr. and Mrs. Hutchinson refused to part with the child and Lieutenant Viesel went to the courts. He got a court order requiring the grandparents to surrender Virginia. But this home was visited neither the child nor the grandparents could be found. However, a few days ago Mr. and Mrs. Hutchinson consented to give up Virginia.

There was a tearful scene today when Lieutenant Viesel took away his little daughter. Virginia did not want to go. When her father took her in his arms she sobbed and clung to a rag doll.

He tried to take her doll, saying that she would have never playthings in his Brooklyn home. But Virginia held to her own rag baby.

Lieutenant Viesel, before taking the train, said Virginia would have opportunities in Brooklyn to get an education and that he felt it his duty to take her, much as he regretted to make Mr. and Mrs. Hutchinson unhappy.

Elkton Marriage Licenses

Elkton, Md., Aug. 14.—The following marriage licenses were issued here today: Matthew J. Devlin and Johanna Sullivan and Kenneth G. Williams and Eleanor G. McDermott, Philadelphia; Herbert Bell, Philadelphia, and Florence Massey, Collinsdale, Pa.; John and Harriet C. Spitzer, Atlantic City; Harvey Supple and Rena W. Dickinson, North Wales, Pa.; William N. Fizz and Ruth Himmelberger, Reading, Pa.; Benjamin W. Booker and Mary E. Robinson, Chester, Pa.; and Harry O. Spitzer and Naomi Larson, Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands.

STANLEY

NORMA TALMADGE

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG

ARCADIA

VICTORIA

THEDA BARA

MARKET ST. ABOVE NINTH

MARKET ST. ABOVE NINTH